3. Ministry Use of the Ranch

The ranch serves several purposes that directly support the ministry's mission and activities.

3.1 Pastoral Residence

The ranch serves as a parsonage for me and my family.

3.2 Staff Housing

The ranch provides housing for two full-time staff members.

3.3 Ministry Offices

The ranch houses the offices for Campus Revolution of Love and Hope for Homeless Youth.

These offices support administrative responsibilities, outreach coordination, and ministry operations.

3.4 Full-Time Discipleship

The ranch houses several individuals who participate in full-time discipleship.

One of these individuals, Bryan Moore, will personally provide a report describing his experience.

The names of other participants are available upon request.

3.5 Outreach Equipment and Food Storage

The ranch contains facilities used to store outreach equipment and food supplies.

These supplies are used to support families, community outreaches, and ministry programs.

3.6 Youth Discipleship and Spiritual Training

The ranch sponsors two regular discipleship and spiritual training activities.

Sunday Church Services

Each Sunday afternoon, the ranch hosts a church service for youth.

Members of the surrounding neighborhood and other interested individuals are welcome to attend.

Wednesday Discipleship Training

Every Wednesday, the ministry conducts discipleship training for individuals seeking spiritual guidance.

These activities include Bible studies held around noon.

3.7 Ministry Vehicle Repairs and Donations

We use the workshop at the ranch to repair ministry vehicles.

We also refurbish donated vehicles, which are subsequently given to families in need.

Occasionally, vehicles are sold to generate funds that support ministry operations.

3.8 Vocational Training

The ministry workshop is also used to train individuals in practical skills, including:

- Electronics
- Building and construction-related skills
- Leatherworking
- Sewing
- Welding
- Automotive repair

These activities are intended to provide participants with useful skills that may assist them in obtaining employment and becoming more self-sufficient.

3.9 Counseling Services

The ranch is occasionally used to provide counseling services.

These services may be conducted in person or over the telephone.

3.10 Youth Counseling Retreats

The City of Los Angeles has given us permission to use the mountain area associated with the ranch for counseling retreats for hurting youth.

These activities may include barbecues, overnight gatherings, and other organized events.

3.11 Staff Retreats and Spiritual Renewal

The mountain facilities also provide a place where ministry staff can temporarily step away from daily responsibilities, relax, pray, and seek spiritual renewal.

3.12 Animal Therapy and Recovery Support

Hannah conducts regular animal therapy sessions for women in recovery.

She uses livestock to help facilitate emotional and mental healing, particularly for individuals recovering from substance abuse.

These sessions provide opportunities for women to participate in therapeutic activities and receive encouragement during recovery.

3.13 Ministry Fundraising Activities

The ranch also supports fundraising activities through the sale of agricultural products, including chickens, eggs, and other items.

Funds generated through these activities are intended to support ministry operations.
